

NO-DIG LIVE 2008 is on track and on-line

NO-DIG LIVE 2008 is shaping up to maintain its reputation as the finest showcase for trenchless technology when it returns to Stoneleigh for its ninth event in this successful series, 23-25 September

A visit to the new show website is recommended - www.nodiglive.co.uk – where visitors can pre-register their attendance and also keep up to date with news of the many activities taking place during the show.

The growing list of exhibitors already includes many well known brands, as well as some new ones. In addition, a number of overseas companies are recognising that NO-DIG LIVE is an important place to exhibit their products and are lining up to display their technology to the UK market.

The outdoor LIVE demonstration area is a popular attraction for visitors and this year will be no exception as yet more companies are preparing to show equipment and technology in action. So great is the demand for the outside space this year that it is almost sold out.

So, make sure you mark your diary to be at NO-DIG LIVE 2008. Previous visitors will know that a day at the show is one of the best possible investments of time for anyone involved in trenchless technology and for those who will be first time visitors, take note – this is a show not to be missed!
